Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 28 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloudy with frequent showers, heaviest in southern parts. Feeling cold.

Today:
The morning commences with some thick cloud across the country, with showers mainly in the south. Through the day, showers spread throughout, but remain organised and heaviest in southern parts. Windy, and blustery along western coasts. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Through the evening, any remaining showers will ease, leaving a dry night. Cloud shifts eastwards overnight, providing clear spells, allowing for a cold night and frost to develop for many. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Thursday:
A dry, bright start, before patchy cloud envelops the region, giving occasional showers and sunny spells through the day. Another frosty night, with clear spells and fog patches. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
More frequent scattered showers on Friday, and likewise on Saturday though becoming heavier in nature. Largely dry and fine with patchy cloud on Sunday. Remaining cold, with overnight frosts likely.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.